PREVIOUS EXPERIENCE

Through her previous roles, Kelly has worked with individuals with a broad spectrum of complex conditions, from neurological disorders such as multiple sclerosis and traumatic brain injury to amputations. She has completed all rotations from surgery to stroke, both in inpatient settings and also in the community.

Kelly combines a wide theoretical knowledge base with vast practical experience with a wide range of cognitive and physical clinical interventions, seeing the process through from assessment to evaluation. Kelly is adept at coordinating services from other professionals in a multidisciplinary team and builds strong working relationships with her clients, their families and other professionals.
